VAN ROW MECHANICAL

After many months of tests and doctor's appointments, Eagle Point native David Hartirck and his wife, Mary Grace, received David's official diagnosis of ALS (also known as Lou Gherig's Disease) in January of 2017. As his mobility began to quickly diminish, David sought out a way to still do the things he loved; hunting, fishing and being in the great outdoors are impossible in a regular wheelchair. Through research, David found an all-terrain track chair that would allow him the freedom he longed for, but there was a catch - the chair was $20,000 and insurance wouldn't cover any of it. With the help of now CEO Steve Furst and the community, David was able to raise enough money to purchase one. Knowing he didn't have much time left, David wanted others to benefit from the chair as well, and after some brainstorming, David's Chair Outdoor Mobility Systems was born.
